Although there are many variations, the basic 12 bar blues follows a particular pattern of the three chords. It goes like this:
Playing the 12 Bar Blues in a particular key is simply a matter of figuring out the I, IV and V of that key and then using those chords with the above form.

Let's do an example. The key of Bb has the following chords for I, IV and V: I = Bb; IV = Eb; V = F; The 12 bar blues in the key of B flat would look like this:

Simple right? You can do this with any key.
